

ST. CLEMENT'S
MEN ORGANIZE

Form a Club With David McKnight as the President.

Men of the church of St. Clement met Tuesday night and perfected the organization of a men's club, modeled after the successful organizations of such organizations in Episcopal parishes of eastern cities. They sat at dinner served in the parish house, and after the meal, discussed plans and elected officers.

As on the first meeting of St. Clement's men, which was held six months ago, David McKnight, a newcomer in the parish, was the active man of the meeting, and Tuesday night he was elected president of the club. At the first meeting, the general plan was discussed, but not until Tuesday night was any organization perfected. The club will meet every third Tuesday in each month.

After tobacco was burning, J. J. Ormsbee, acting as temporary chairman, called upon Mr. McKnight. Illustrating his talk with clever stories, the speaker made an organization speech which brought results. The 40 men present signed the constitution which had been drafted by Judge J. M. Goggin. Rev. Henry Easter, rector of the church, told of what other men's clubs were doing. Others made short talks.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, David McKnight; vice presidents, V. E. Stiles and S. J. Fennell; secretary, R. R. Bokahr; treasurer, J. M. Hay; executive committee, W. T. Ravenhill, H. V. Ellis, and Dr. George H. Mengel.

Every Woman's Hair
Should Be Beautiful

(From Style and Fashion, New York). "Beautiful, glossy and lustrous hair is within the reach of every woman who will only try," said Mme. LeClair, the French beauty specialist, today. "By trying I mean she must use intelligence as well as be willing to put forth the physical effort required. If your hair is dull, brittle, dry and streaked, it means that you are not taking intelligent care of it. "Stop your scrubbing, rubbing and rinsing. Soap and water shampoos only give you a headache, keep you indoors the better part of a day, and expose you to catching cold. "Every woman who wants abundant, lustrous hair should use a dry shampoo. Mix four ounces of powdered orris root with four ounces of theriac. Sprinkle about a tablespoonful of this mixture upon the head; then brush the powder thoroughly through the hair. "This cleanses the scalp and hair and gives the hair a beautiful glossy lustre. In addition to making it light and fluffy, Theriac encourages the growth of hair."

These Chilly Days Emphasize the Immediate Need of a Heating Stove

From now on there will be very few days warm enough to be without heat of some kind in the house. In the evenings especially a good warm stove will contribute more toward real home comfort than anything else.

We want to impress on you that we are in a position to retail stoves of all kinds at lower prices than it will be possible to find elsewhere. Whether you want a heating stove or a range; a wood burner or a coal burner, we've got just what you need and at a lower price than you are probably expecting to pay.

While we are somewhat out of the way, the money saved by buying a stove of us makes the extra walk a secondary consideration.

Don't forget to attend the Booster meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Dec. 1st.

DECLARES THE INSURGENTS ARE VERY STRONG IN NORTH MEXICO

department into a company which is now being drilled in the city.

"Sunday's battle was a surprise to the government and the regiment of troops that sallied out of Chihuahua. The statement that the fight took place at Fresno station on the Mexico North Western railway is incorrect, as this lies eight miles west of Chihuahua, and the battle ground was just about two and one-quarter miles west of the city, in a rolling country broken by hills.

"In order to better understand the scene of action and the country where the battle was fought it is necessary to state that the country to the west of the city is occupied by isolated spurs of the Sierra Madre proper, where that great system disappears to the east. These spurs reach out to the eastward like the vast jagged teeth of an enormous saw. Some rise to great heights, and eight miles south-west of the battle ground is found the peak of Botosillas that rises to the magnitude of 7750 feet above the sea level, while the city of Chihuahua lies in a narrow valley 4750 feet high. Vast canyons have been eroded into these mountains and nature has supplied them with numberless impenetrable fortresses that if fortified are as strong as Gibraltar itself. Within this region and all of the territory west of the Chubiscar dam a force of a few men could hold legions at bay if supplied with rapid firing guns. About 15 miles from Chihuahua, along the Mexico North Western road is a narrow canyon or pass through which the railway passes to reach the high plains of Salas and Palomas. In the mountains pass on the north side of the railway is an old fort built during the Indian invasion.

Was a Gula Occasion. "It was a gala morning in Chihuahua just before the troops under Gen. Navarro left Sunday. Gaily dressed society women waved farewell to the multicolored uniforms of the officers, off to the conquest, while the hubber women bade farewell to their soldier sweethearts with as much grace as such affairs permit. "There were over 800 troops and 200 camp followers who left Chihuahua. These were divided into six companies of infantry and two of cavalry. A small squad of cavalry scouted ahead of the infantry and some of the men reached to within sight of Fresno station, but the main body of troops returned long before reaching that point.

It is said by an insurrectionist that the attack on the rear guard of the federal troops was the result of an accident or the work of a traitor in their own camp. "The public wagon road parallels the railway and it was along this open road that the federal troops had to pass. As the railway has to take the water grade it lies in a hollow everywhere surrounded by small and large hills. The country here is one mass of loose rocks, and it is impossible to pass over any part of it except the road, on horseback faster than a walk so that the cavalry was practically useless.

Cavalry Guards Road. "As a matter of precaution Gen. Navarro left a cavalry detachment of 150 men to guard the road against an insurrectionary attack from the rear and the insurrectionary forces that formed the left skirmish detached to the south and took a position along the crest of a ridge. The rear guard of the main force had hardly disappeared from view when a rifle was discharged by one of the insurrectionists that resulted in giving the alarm. "Insurgents Use Good Tactics. "The object of the insurrectionary forces in advancing their left wing to the crest was to close in behind the federal troops and give battle on their retreat which was fully anticipated as a strong insurrectionary force was fortified in the narrow pass to the north and south of the public road at Fortin.

Fight Lasted Four Hours. "The fight lasted from 2:30 p. m. until after dark and the revolutionists were dislodged from their position as stated in press dispatches. Seven men were killed by the federal troops and 20 taken prisoners. These were a part of a company that was detached from the main body of the insurrectionist forces.

Fifty-one Federal Killed. "The government lost 51 killed and these have been buried outside of town. The government wounded is estimated at 90. It was impossible to learn the number of wounded on the insurrectionist side, but a man present at the battle says that the number was larger, probably 65. The insurrectionists were reinforced by 150 deserters from the federal troops. "The bodies of the seven skirmishers killed by the federal troops were placed on exhibition in Chihuahua yesterday and a morbid crowd viewed the cadavers.

"Situation Despicable. "From all sides it is learned that the situation in Chihuahua is deplorable and military experts say that it will take 10,000 troops to clear up the infected district if the revolutionists maintain their present organization, and food does not become scarce. This is doubtful as the corn and potato crop in the Sierra Madre has not yet been sold and will last for some months, and cattle on the Buena Vista and other ranches are in good condition.

Insurgents Defiant. "To show the self confidence of the insurrectionists, Monday evening they sent Gen. Navarro a defiant message asking him to bring out his troops for another battle. "It is intimated by those who know the next move will be on the state penitentiary in Chihuahua, where nearly 2000 prisoners and suspects are now corralled. "There seems to be no disposition to disturb foreigners, and no fear should be felt by Americans for their friends in this country. Already predatory bands of vandals and thieves are showing up in Chihuahua, and are constantly robbing houses, cattle and horses.

Women Make Soldiers Desert. "The work of bringing over the soldiers is being done by the women camp followers who always have great influence with the class of men that constitutes the Mexican army. "The strength of the insurgent army now in the Sierra Madre is estimated at 7000 men, 4000 of which are cavalry. These men have gathered from all sections, some coming from Sonora and Sinaloa. It is doubtful, however, from a military standpoint, if these men can be held together under conditions of inaction owing to the rigorous cold of the Sierra, to which they are not accustomed, and to the usual disaffection caused by idleness in all army corps.

Americans Very Discreet. "Americans will not express themselves except 'in confidence.' Most of them have interests in Mexico, others hope to have, and the governing classes of Mexicans minimize the whole insurrection movement and its importance while trembling with fear.

Under a Mystery. "The remarkable feature is that no one knows who is really at the head of the revolution. So far as Madero is concerned it has been reported that he was kidnapped in San Antonio and taken to Mexico City. This may or may not be true, but it is certain that no one has seen him for 16 days or more. Where is he? Certain it is that the clerical party is not friendly to the government and Silvestre Terrazas, editor of the Correo of Chihuahua, the Roman Catholic organ, has been placed in jail.

Conditions are truly serious, and the government forces are demoralized to such an extent that the result will only be revealed when they are forced once more to face action in a pitched battle which is expected Sunday or Monday next, as the insurgents say they will make an attempt to take Chihuahua within the next 10 days."

MEXICANS RETURN TO THEIR COUNTRY

Many People Also Leaving. Disturbance the Cause Of It.

There is no letup in the migration of Mexican workmen to Mexico. The union station is crowded with the native laborers, their families, children and baggage. There is now no doubt that they have learned of the insurrection and are returning, either to join their families there or take a hand in the trouble. Each train from the west and north brings in a carload of the native section hands. They are all well dressed, for laborers, and have blankets and supplies with them. In addition to the movement of Mexican laborers, there has also been a noticeable increase in the first and second class Mexican traffic. Ranchers and Mexican cattlemen are crossing the border in numbers and the sudden increase in Mexican travel has been taken as a significant indication of the seriousness of the Mexican situation.

And it is not all directed towards Mexico. Many Mexicans and Americans are coming out. They are coming from all directions, mostly men with families. Many have come from as far as Sinaloa and Sonora, many more from Chihuahua and Durango, and numerous families from still further in the interior.

SAYS REVOLT HAS NOT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—Gustavo A. Madero, brother of the leader of the revolution in Mexico, who is here representing the interests of the insurgents, has issued a statement declaring that only skirmishes have taken place thus far with government troops; that large bodies of volunteers are constantly augmenting the revolutionist forces in Chihuahua, Durango and neighboring states, and that the revolt in Yucatan, Campeche and southern Mexico is even more serious than in the northern part.

Gen. Diaz is reported in inside circles to be prostrated, the statement says, and has threatened to dismiss Senor Cocio, the minister of war, because of the magnitude which the revolution has assumed.

the rioting and demonstrations in the northern part of Mexico are of little general importance, and will have no permanent effect on the general peace and prosperity of Mexico, is the opinion of Lic. Luis Garcia de Letona, of Torreon, who has arrived in the city, accompanied by his family.

"Movements in the north," said this attorney, "are of little importance, owing to the fact that the rioters have no responsible leader. In fact, the groups of rebels are formed entirely of persons without social position, and without the responsibility necessary for such an undertaking.

"Gomez Palacio was in the hands of the rebels for three hours. The alarm in Torreon was reasonable.

"In Cuernavaca, where the rebels took refuge, they were routed by the federal forces and forced to flee toward San Pedro de las Colonias, Coahuila. As a revenge the rebels tried to set fire to the railway bridge near Velardena."

TOM MILLER SAYS ARMED

BANDS ACTIVE IN SONORA. Sonora, hitherto quiet, is reported to be infected with armed insurgents, who are organizing in the mountains. No move has yet been made by the insurgents.

Tom Miller, an El Paso mining man, has written from Sonora that armed bands of men may be seen in the hills and mountains of that state, and it is thought that there is an organized movement among the anti-government sympathizers in that section.

Strength of commercial activity rests in cooperative work.

Capital and labor have been at war, but they show signs of getting together, and if they do not cooperate, neither could succeed.

All kinds of business find profit in cooperation, the railroads merge and form systems or associations, the manufacturers have done the same thing, the doctors and the ministers combine for the benefit of their profession, why not, then, El Paso! LET US BEGIN RIGHT NOW.
